Dr. Polk also twits the Negro for not being "brave" enough to commit murder. Hear him! "Where the proportion of white to black was so small it needed but some spirit of aggression for them to rise and seize their liberty. Is it likely that any other of the many tribes and races that have come in here since Columbus landed would have accepted such a condition?" As we were peaceable and humane, as we are to-day, Dr. Polk throws it into our face as a badge of cowardice before a Southern audience that claps him to the echo, because we did not slaughter them when they were at our mercy. The inference is to be drawn that Dr. Polk would have killed from A to Z had he been as we were. One beautiful thing the Negro can never be accused of wantonly murdering the helpless and innocent, however much Dr. Polk may brand him as a coward. On the field of courage, facing an open enemy, he has always been as brave as Marshal Ney.

Dr. Polk's address was too much to gulp down without a passing notice of his rank sophistries.

COOKVILLE NOTES.

The institute that convened at Cookville, Tenn., this year is said to have been the largest and most interesting ever known. The faculty was composed of Profs. Baird, Ballod and Misses Queenie Arnold and Hettie Phillips. Great interest seems to have been manifested during the week. On Friday night an excellent programme was rendered, after which Prof. Richmond, Rev. Tucker and Profs. Baird and Ballod made some very interesting remarks. The institute was favored with a visit from the faculty of the white institute of that county. The Institute was conducted by Prof. Ballod. The teachers have not as yet been assigned schools.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Vally Stone is one of the neatest and prettiest in Cookville.

Some of the people of Cookville seem to be carried away with the Globe.

Rev. Mr. Scott and Rev. Mr. Leayne seem to be doing good work at Cookville.

Rev. Tucker and Rev. Blackmond are coming to the front at Algood.
